My Life, My choices

The numbers of women in their middle years (45-65) are increasing dramatically. It is apparent that existing services are not adequate to meet the needs of this emerging clientele.

The YWCA of Montreal, supported by a grant from Health Canada, is launching a major study to determine what the issues and needs are for women nearing or in this middle stage of life. A questionnaire will soon be made available to women throughout the Greater Montreal region, in which they will be asked to respond to questions relating to career and job transitions, health, care of children and aging parents, relationships, retirement and financial planning, and mental health. It will also seek information on what changes or preparations women are making to facilitate the process of maturing.

The YWCA will be hosting a series of information events and will assist in coordinating community based information sessions, if requested. The YWCA is also planning a media campaign in order to heighten the public's awareness of this subject.

It is critical that this study be supported by women of all the socio-economic and cultural backgrounds that make up our local population.

Nous vivons présentement une croissance importante dans le nombre de femmes de 45 à 65 ans. Il devient de plus en plus évident que les services existants ne suffisent pas aux besoins de cette clientèle émergente.

La YWCA de Montréal, avec l'appui financier de Santé Canada, initie une importante étude pour identifier les besoins et les intérêts des femmes approchant ou ayant atteint ce stade intermédiaire de la vie. Un questionnaire portant sur la vie de ces femmes sera bientôt disponible pour les femmes du grand Montréal. Ce questionnaire a pour but de faire le bilan de tous les aspects de la vie des femmes (travail, santé, famille) et de leur préparation à la retraite.

La YWCA aussi sera l'hôte d'une série de rencontres d'information à ses bureaux du 1355 René-Lévesque O. et, sur demande, aidera à coordonner les rencontres s'adressant à des communautés particulières. La YWCA prépare une campagne médiatique pour sensibiliser le public sur cette question.

Il est essentiel que les femmes appartenant à tous les groupes culturels et socio-économiques du grand Montréal participent à cette étude.
